

What is your race and culture?

What do you think about first when it comes to race and culture?

Language, color skin, religion, food, festivals, values, personalities, ...

What came to your mind immediately when you think of these population?
Chinese, Japanese, Russian, German, Korean, Indian, White American, Black American, ...

How many of your immediately impression above to those groups are truth, or bias or stereotypes?

What is the better, healthier, and more positive perspective you can take from now on for race, culture, bias, and stereotypes personally?